

Hi Selena,

Amazing work on the site! It looks simple yet sophisticated and is responding well. I really like how the top and bottom navigation bars stay fixed throughout toggling through the different pages and lead you back to the landing page. The reorganizing of the pictures and layouts also looks very nice.

Here are a few notes I have for the final draft:

- Responsiveness – at mobile phone dimensions, the top navigation bar begins to break down. In addition, the spacing between the images and text gets quite large.
- Typefaces – the coral color used for the subheadings on the concept and themes page and for the credits of the quotes is a little hard to read on the teal background. I do like the color though. Maybe try playing with the cases (uppercase, lowercase, title case) and fonts on all the copy. It may look stronger to put the headings and subheadings in caps, but I trust whatever you think is best.
- Sources – I can't seem to find the credits of the images or copy on the site. I think this can be added on the landing page or awards page somewhere at the bottom and can be hyperlinked.

Thank you so much for all your hard work! I'm so excited to see the final draft.

Feel free to reach out with any questions,
Ari
